Note from the Teachers

Family Night was a success! I was so happy to see so many Brown Room families! I hope you all enjoyed coming to see the classroom, and some of the children's work in the classroom.

The Brown Room just recently had some tadpoles donated to our room. This is a great conversation to be had with your children. Ask them about the tadpoles, and what they look like. Try to have your child describe the tadpole to you. We will be talking about how to take care of our tadpoles, so ask your children about this process as well!

Peek at Last Week

Last week we started to discuss apples in the Brown Room! The students were able to test different colored apples and choose their favorite, and the students also made apple trees with finger paint. A few of the books we read included "Ten Apples Up on Top", "The Biggest Apple Ever", and "Apple Trouble!" These books are great for making predictions and story sequencing!

Our Week

This week we will still focus on apples in our room. We will be acting out a few of our stories, and exploring parts of the apple. We will complete a float or sink activity, and let the students have some hands on experiences with apples.
